N B. The Remarks in this Book in Small black writing were not made by me They were made I think by my predecessor the Revd. Doctor Coghlan —

The Remarks shewing the Poor law Unions and the Electoral Divisions to which the several Town lands belong, were made at my request, by the Relieving Officer of Ardgole who was well acquainted with the places named —

Bunnane in the County of Kerry the Property of the Marquess of Lansdowne with all its Town Lands is in the Kenmare Union and the Town lands in the Electoral Division of Bunnane —

The Rest of the Parish of Kilcaskin is in the County of Cork, and is the property of the Earl of Bantry — Part of it, called Glengarriff, is in the Union of Bantry and, is styled the Electoral Division of Kilcaskin in its Books — Another part called "the Electoral Division of Ardgole", is in the Union of Castletown Bearhaven, and another smaller part is in the Electoral Division of Curryglas — and is also in the Union of Castletown Bearhaven. any remarks I made are in pencilling Richard H Wright.
