

That whatever within the said Parish is three hundred and ninety four pounds by the year, of which sum two hundred pounds are due and payable to the Recd. James Keason the Vicar of said Parish, and one hundred & ninety four pounds are due & payable to his Grace the Duke of Devonshire as Lay Improvitor being the average of the sum agreed for & paid to his Grace for the seven ^{successive} years preceding the 1st of Nov. 1730, increased by one fifth [the utmost the act allows] the average of the said sum not appearing to have been an adequate compensation for the tithes of the several ~~sums~~ articles in which ^{such} sums have been paid and agreed for

And I do further certify that the
